

LEGISLATURE'S WORK CUT OUT

Freight Bill To Fix Rates Will Be Reported Within a Few Days.

PRIMARY BILL UP

It Will Be Heard on Thursday Afternoon, in an Open Session of Committee.

(By Staff Correspondent) Madison, Wis., Feb. 21.—The railway taxation bill, providing for taxing railroad property on the ad valorem or property valuation system, is still in the hands of the committees on assessment and collection of taxes, of the two houses, and while there is some disagreement between the two committees as to the handling of the measure, there is no probability that it will be reported back to the legislature until after March 1. The railway people are to have a hearing next Thursday. There is no probability that any change will be made in the bill as it came from the tax commission, with the possible exception of some of the minor details.

Freight Bill. The freight rate bill, providing for the appointment of a committee with authority to fix rates, is practically drawn and ready for introduction, though there is some talk of delaying it until after the tax bill is reported. The bill in its main features will follow the Iowa law very closely, and will give the commission power to fix maximum rates for both freight and passenger traffic.

Primary Bill. What will the senate do with the primary election bill? This is the leading question just now. The conservatives claim that they will have nineteen votes in the upper house for amending the bill as it was passed by the assembly, at least to the extent of attaching a referendum clause which will require that it be submitted to a vote of the people before becoming a law. Among these nineteen, however, they count two democratic senators, North and Randolph, and the administration men claim to have assurances that both will vote with Senator Merton for the assembly bill. The administration men claim at least 17 of the 33 votes in the upper house for the bill, just enough to pass it, with a good chance for two or three more. A public hearing on the bill will be held next Thursday afternoon and evening. The request for this hearing came in a telegram to Senator Whitehead from half a dozen conservatives and democrats of Racine county. Thomas M. Kearney, chairman of the last democratic state convention being one of the signers.

The Referendum. As to attaching a referendum clause to the bill, the administration men say the people have already spoken pretty loudly on the subject. If, however, the vote could be taken this spring, they would not object so strongly, but the proposition is to have it voted on at the general election, which would mean delay and the possibility of the election of a set of state officers and a legislature who would be against the bill. But there is a difficulty in the way of having it submitted this spring, in the fact that a bill is pending before the legislature providing for biennial terms in cities and the continuance of the present aldermen for another year, which would mean, if passed, that many many of the cities of the state would hold no elections this spring.

Thier Claims. And even if the bill can be amended in the upper house, the administration claim a safe majority—65 of the 100 votes at least—in the assembly, against any change in the primary bill, and say that if the senate does not concur it will have to again take the responsibility of defeating the measure. Belvidere, Ill., Feb. 21.—An incoming passenger train from Janesville on the Chicago and Northwestern road collided with a switch engine in the local yards, partially demolishing both engines. The passengers escaped with bruises and Fireman Atchison was bruised and injured internally. The switch engine was cut loose from the tender and ran wild through the yards. After running over 100 feet on the ties the engine mounted the main line of the Northern Illinois branch and left the city, running south.

A train dispatcher in Chicago wired the agent at Herbert to run the wild engine into the ditch, as it endangered incoming trains and also trains on the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul and the Illinois Central, which cross the Northwestern south of this city. Half an hour later the escaped engine was caught stalled on a hill three miles south of the city.

According to the new arrangement it is expected the President will leave here about March 20 for Colorado. (Special By Scripps-McRae.) Washington, Feb. 21.—The prospects for an extra session of congress to finish up the unfinished business of the present session seems very probable now looking at the present deadlock in the senate which hinders all other legislation of any kind until it is broken. ## NOVEL BALL AT CENTRAL HALL

RAILWAY TELEGRAPHERS HOLD FIRST DANCE.

MANY OPERATORS PRESENT

Successful Affair Will Be Repeated Yearly—Novel Programs Provided—Signal Tower.

Central hall was in the hands of the telegraphers last evening. In one corner a telegraph instrument ticked. A transparency of red and green shone out from a mass of green which enveloped the musicians' gallery. On the opposite side of the hall a signal tower had been erected, and above it stood an old-fashioned three armed semaphore.

The occasion was the long awaited ball of the order of Railroad Telegraphers. It was the first effort of the local lodge in that direction, but the attempt was so unqualified a success that it is purposed to repeat the event yearly. About one hundred and twenty-five couples were in attendance.

Delvin Was Train Dispatcher

To the right of the main entrance to the hall was the waiting room. Here, at least, the committee in charge departed from strict adherence to existing railway conditions. Palms had been massed together, and seats cozily arranged in a manner quite unlike the usual station waiting room.

To the left of the entrance, in the corner, was the train dispatcher's desk. Sounders, transmitters, and the train book, telegraph blanks and other paraphernalia of the telegrapher's office littered the table. The dispatcher was C. A. Delvin, signal inspector of the Northwestern road.

Signal Tower in Hall

In the signal tower were similar implements of the telegrapher. Within was C. A. Ransom, general secretary and treasurer of the order, in official uniform and cap. He was about the busiest man in the hall. At short intervals throughout the evening he jerked the semaphore arms up and down, displaying "danger," "caution," and "safety" in rapid succession. Above the window of the signal tower was the emblem of the order, a telegraph sounder surrounded by an acacia wreath on a white ground.

Over thirty operators had assembled at the hall, coming from stations up and down the line, whenever a man was at liberty. Last evening's dance was given by the local lodge of the C. & N. W. division, No. 76. Order of Railroad Telegraphers. This division has 1600 members and includes the operators of the C. & N. W. F. E. and M. V., and C. M. & St. P. M. and O. roads.

Clever Programs

In the preparation of the programs attention to railroad forms had been observed. They were entitled "Time Tables of Pleasure" No. 1, taking effect 8:20 p. m., Friday, Feb. 20, 1933. Opposite each dance was an appropriate train order. Plans had been made for a grand wreck which would force the guests to forage for refreshments while repairs were being made. The smash-up did not materialize.

On the list of committees occurred the following names: Arrangement, A. G. Perkins, pres. C. A. Ransom, gen. mgr. C. A. Develin, gen. supt. E. G. Barrett, ass. gen. mgr. I. T. Matthews, ass. gen. supt. Floral, J. J. Fisher, div. supt. P. L. Hackett, ass. J. N. Woodbury, C. T. D.; A. G. Hanson, 1st Trick.

Committees

Decorations, H. O. Churchill, 2nd Trick; F. M. Barrus, 3rd Trick; C. A. Bonnell, 2nd Trick; Sayles, 3rd Trick. Reception, C. E. Downie, Chief Surgeon; R. L. Herrick, Asst. Surgeon; P. A. Cooper, Pay Master; H. S. Bixby, Asst. Pay Master. Floor C. H. Summy, Supt. Dining Cars; N. Ehr, Ticket Auditor; J. B. Cook, Supt. Telegraph; E. J. Selleck, Gen. Cashier.

HOWARD KYLE IN PLEASING PLAY

Laughter and Lies Presented by a Good Company Before a Small House.

It was a dignified audience that greeted Howard Kyle last evening. A few of the bolder spirits occasionally gave vent to a thimorous hand clap. Now and then a faint hearted laugh was audible. In general a respectful and discreet silence was maintained.

Not because the actor failed to sustain the reputation which he has firmly established on the few occasions when he has appeared at the Myers Grand opera house. It was the constrained hush which falls on a diminutive audience in the presence of the "legitimate" drama. If the theater had been jammed like a box of sardines Mr. Kyle would undoubtedly have been received with an unmixed warmth of enthusiasm. Instead he encountered a decidedly cold wave.

"Laughter and Lies," the play in which Mr. Kyle is this year appearing, is rather like "Nathan Hale," his former success. Its revolutionary setting gives opportunity for scarlet coated and carmine nosed British officers, tattered rebel fugitives, dashing spies, and an atmosphere of intrigue, a little war, and a vast amount of love making. Chief among the love-makers was Howard Kyle as Henry Trueman. Very well did he take the part, half in earnest and more than half in play. In the finer arts of devotion he was adept and polished, but he seemed to lack the vitality and force of the ideal revolutionary hero.

Florence Smyth was a dainty Ruth Miffin and Edna Ewen played Mrs. Betty Jordan effectively. Frederick Webber was perhaps as convincing and natural an actor as any in the company. His part was that of a British Lieutenant. His colonel, played by Asa Steele, was a pompous old wine bibber who was not yet too old to fall victim to the charms of a woman. Stephen Hoyt supplied the comedy element in the part of Chloe, a superstitious negress with a deathly fear of falling into the grasp of the man eating rebels.

Spoke to Members of the Y. M. C. A. Junior Gymnasium Class This Morning.

Members of the Junior gymnasium classes of the Young Men's Christian association were addressed this morning by Dr. F. T. Richards. His theme this morning was "Obedience."

KOSHKONONG IS SCENE OF RACES

Enthusiastic Ice Boat Owners Are Competing for Cup There Today.

The latest reports from Koshkonong are that while there is some snow on the ice, it is not bad and will not interfere materially with the ice boat race today for a special cup.

Same Boats

About the same boats will contest for this cup, that were in the race for the Carajou cup. Since that race several of the boats have been completely overhauled and put in the best possible shape for the race. It looks as if it would be a close thing between Curt Bliven's boat and Tone Brown's, as these two were the most evenly matched in the last race.

It does not take much snow to spoil the racing and if no more falls and it is a nice day there will be a big crowd at the lake today to see the fun. Quite a number from here went up on the morning train to Koshkonong and will come back tonight after the races are finished.

Edgerton Cup

The race for the Edgerton cup did not take place today, on account of C. Bliven of Edgerton, one of the contestants, being sick and unable to sail his boat. The gentleman who donated the "Edgerton Cup" was anxious to have Lee Bliven boat in the race, so it was agreed to postpone the contest for a week. The race today will be for a special cup, donated by George M. McKee, of this city, to be known as the "McKee Cup." It is not as elaborate as the Edgerton cup, but will be a handsome trophy for the boat that wins it.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Saturday, Feb. 21, 1893.—Military ovations are usually given to such commanders as achieve success. This rule is reversed by the copperhead politicians of our own country. Only those officers who always fail, and who persistently disobey the orders of their superiors, are considered worthy of honor. Wonder how much per line the associated press agent gets for "working up" and telegraphing the particulars of such demonstrations.

The congressional proceedings say the senate's "bank bill" has passed the house without amendment; another dispatch says "the currency bill passed the house precisely as it came from the senate," and yet another dispatch says a committee of conference has been appointed from both houses upon the currency question. The latter indicates that the finance measure is still undecided. We must wait for further information before we can know how the matter stands. In Europe.

CONCERT CLOSES LECTURE COURSE

FINAL ATTRACTION THE BEST OF THE SEASON.

AN ARTISTIC PROGRAM GIVEN

George H. Iott Concert Company Delights a Large and Appreciative Audience.

If there had been but one number on the People's Lecture course this season and that one the concert with which the course was concluded, Friday evening, the music loving patrons at least would have been content with their bargain that they had received more than their money's worth. There has seldom been a concert given in Janesville where every number on the program was so thoroughly enjoyable.

An Appreciative Audience

The Congregational church was filled with the usual magnificent audience and it was the general sentiment that, excellent as the entire course has been this winter, the concluding attraction was far superior to any of the others. It formed a happy climax for a series of splendid entertainments.

This final evening of pleasure was given by the George H. Iott Concert company which is composed of four people, every one a finished artist in a particular line. The company includes Miss Agnes Pringle, violinist; Miss Charlotte S. Tarrant, harpist; George H. Iott, basso, and J. Franklin Caveny, chalk talk artist.

Well Chosen Program

The program given was excellent in its entirety and in its individual numbers. Faultless taste was manifested in the general arrangement and in the choice of selections, every one of which was a classic. It was an exceptionally fine program, exceptionally well given, affording an unusual treat which the audience was quick to appreciate. Moreover it was the intelligent and discriminating appreciation of true art not the wild enthusiasm over something which just chanced to catch the popular fancy.

Honors were divided very evenly between the four artists, a testimonial to the uniform excellence of the company. There was no bright particular star of the evening, but each one seemed to shine with equal radiance.

A Great Basso

Naturally interest centered in Geo. H. Iott for whom the company is named. Mr. Iott has a remarkable bass voice, with a wide range, tremendous power and richness of quality. His lower tones are wonderful and as sings with an ease which makes listening to him a pleasure. For his first number he sang "Mad Tom" by Purcell, giving "Three Wise Men" for an encore and his other solo number was "When I'm Big I'll Be A Soldier" by Molloy, after which he declined to respond, bowing his recognition of the insistent demand for another song. His first number was sung with the piano accompaniment and his second with the harp and violin.

Splendid Instrumental Selections

Miss Pringle's artistic violin playing was one of the delights of the evening. She plays with exquisite delicacy and poetic feeling, drawing from the instrument the purest and sweetest tones. Her two solos on the program were "Hejre Katl," by Hubay and "Reverie" by Vieuxtemps and she gave one encore number.

The audience was also thrilled by the peculiar music of the harp, whose strings were swept by the talented fingers of Miss Tarrant. Brilliance and delicacy of execution characterized the selections in which the harp was heard with such charming effect. Her first number was "Melody in F" by John Thomas and for an encore Miss Tarrant played a selection from the "Behemian Girl." Her second solo, "Echoes of a Waterfall" was a gem.

Nonsense and Art

The humor of the evening was supplied by Mr. Caveny, who is one of the cleverest chalk talk artists ever seen in the city. He accompanied his drawings with witty remarks, which kept the audience in good humor. As he talked he drew rapidly with both hands, accomplishing marvelous results with a few strokes. His work was largely funny, being caricatures of people, but he also drew some beautiful landscapes, changing one scene from a morning sunrise on the ocean to a scene on a moonlight night with skaters on the frozen river.

Duets Were Enjoyed

One of the best numbers on the program was the one with which it opened, a violin and harp duet, "Selubert's song" arranged by John Thomas and played by Miss Pringle and Miss Tarrant. Equally pleasing was the selection from "Cavaleria Rusticana," which they gave for an encore. "Home Sweet Home." In the closing number, "Home, Sweet Home" the entire company appeared. Mr. Iott singing the familiar words to the violin and harp accompaniment while Mr. Caveny drew a beautiful picture of a home on the wooded banks of a river. This number made an unusual and effective termination for the very successful concert.

ROCKFORD BOWLERS AFTER A CONTEST

Young Men from New Drexel Alleys Anxious to Meet a Janesville Five.

Robert Hockett has received a letter from Harry S. Neeldam of Rockford relative to an inter-city bowling match. Neeldam says that some of the younger bowlers on the New Drexel alleys are eager to meet the Janesville five, and will do it on any terms—losing team paying expenses, or each team paying their own expenses and play a return game. In either case the losers would stand the cost of the alleys. Mr. Hockett expects to go to Rockford next week to try to arrange for a couple of games, but he wishes to assure himself that the players will come here to play and not for a spree, as did a former Rockford team.

IS THE CHURCH UP TO DATE THE TOPIC

Subject for Discussion at Supper of First M. E. Knight's Class on Monday Evening.

"Is the Church Up-to-Date?" is the question which will be discussed by young men of the First M. E. church Monday evening. The occasion will be the monthly supper of the Knight's class. Following the discussion of the feast for the inner man, the usual custom of treating of some subject of live interest will be followed.

W. L. Rothermel is to direct the discussion of the topic which has been chosen. The other speakers will be E. M. Kay, Finley Williams, Herman Kramer, and Rev. W. W. Warner. Church methods, and the influence of the church today will be freely criticised. Remedies and improvements will be suggested, the talk being of as practical a nature as possible. Abundant opportunity will be given for the members of the class to express their opinions.

AMUSING TALES FROM REAL LIFE

STORIES WHICH MAY CAUSE A SMILE.

BRIGHT BITS OF NONSENSE

The Central Figures in These Instances Are Well Known Janesville People.

Life affords many opportunities for laughter and truly humorous incidents take place more frequently in the home, the place of business or on the street than on the stage devoted to farce comedy and comic opera. Many of these incidents are broadly farcical but the majority are more quiet in their humor. Some of the funniest situations are wasted on unappreciative beholders while other people possess the happy faculty of detecting the faintest suggestion of humor.

Some of the choicest spirits, whose eyes are always wide open for the good things which are constantly occurring, witnessed a little scene between a horse and its master not long since, memories of which have still the power to occasion an appreciative twinkle of the eye and a quiet smile. To the few who happened to witness the incident, it was deliciously funny.

It happened in front of the city hall. A horse with a milk wagon attached grew tired of waiting for the driver to come back from one of the houses in that neighborhood and proceeded to walk leisurely away. He had gone some distance when the driver, carrying a tin milk can appeared on the scene. Shouting wildly at the top of his voice, he sprinted after the horse which walked serenely on in apparent indifference.

The man caught up with the procession just in front of the city hall. By that time he was fairly beside himself with rage and the language which he used left a suggestion of sulphur and brimstone in the air for some time. Still clinging fondly to the milk can with one hand, the man grabbed hold of the horse and jerked him to a standstill. Then he tried to wrench his anger on the horse.

With all of his force he aimed a powerful blow at the horse's head but the horse had his eyes wide open and, anticipating the attack, threw up his head just at the right moment and the man's arm shot out into space under the animal's neck. The force which he was exerting overbalanced the man and he went sprawling in the gutter while the horse looked on placidly. By this time the man was mad clear through and, blind with rage, he returned to the attack while oath followed oath in rapid sequence. Again he tried his knockout blow and again the horse eluded it. Attempt after attempt brought the same result until the man tired himself out and retired, vanquished by the wisdom of an inferior animal. The horse was certainly a wise one and the clever way in which he outwitted his assailant won the sympathies and the admiration of the spectators.

A Case of Mistaken Identity.
The comedy and sometimes the tragedy of making a mistake with a bottle of medicine is not a new story but the results are more amusing in some instances than in others. A well-known young society lady is the victim of one of these mistakes, but happily the outcome was more damaging to her clothing and her feelings than to her health.

The young lady was suffering with a severe attack of toothache and finally decided to try an application of liniment on her face, thinking this might relieve the pain. In response to her request, her sister brought the desired bottle from the medicine closet and placed it on the table. Then the sufferer changed her mind about using it and placed the bottle back where it belonged.

After she had retired, however, the pain became so intense that she once more decided to try the liniment and without striking a light she went directly to where she supposed the bottle was standing and rubbed a generous supply on her face.

While she was wondering at the peculiar stickiness of it and thinking that it was the strangest liniment she had ever had any experience with, her sister came into the room and said: "What on earth are you doing with the cough medicine. It smells as if you had tipped the whole bottleful over."

A light was hastily struck and there stood the victim with face and hands smeared with the sticky mass, some of which had trickled down onto her slumber robe. It dawned on the young lady then that she had forgotten about putting the liniment back in its place and that it was a case of mistaken identity in bottles. The cough medicine was wiped off and a coating of liniment added and the peculiar thing about the whole incident is that the next morning the young lady was not only cured of her toothache but of a cold with which she had also been suffering.

The Infants Terrible.
Hospitality reigns on Quality hill and it is not strange that even the children are imbued with its spirit. Their endeavors to follow the examples set them by their parents sometimes leads to amusing complications and situations that are apt to be embarrassing to the mothers even though the children are above minding such trifles.

The other night, the daughter of prominent residents on Quality hill, called herself to sleep because her mother refused to allow her to telephone to one of her little playmates. The child had argued that she must telephone because her friend was giving a party and she was invited. The next day the two mothers met and one explained why her daughter was not able to attend the party at the other's home the preceding evening, only to find that the party in question is not to occur until the birthday of the prospective hostess, an event which occurs next summer.

The telling of this story has developed the fact that two other little maidens in the same neighborhood have already invited a number of guests to their next birthday parties, one of which occurs in March and the other in August.

If you like Mrs. Austin's famous Panache flour, would you kindly tell your friends how delicious it is.

The sessions of this Rock County Farmers' Institute will close at the afternoon session. The subject for that meeting are Silo and Silage by Mr. Nordman, The Caves by Mr. Scribner, and Good Feeding by Mr. Goodrich.

It is especially urged that all farmers in the vicinity attend the institute as it is for them. ### PREVALENCE OF CATARRH

Growing Use of Hyomel Will Soon Show a Decrease of This Disease. Statistics show that at least 97 out of every 100 persons in New York state are suffering from catarrh in some form. While the disease is one of the most common with which the medical profession has to contend, it also is one of the most dangerous. This is owing to its tendency to affect the bronchial tubes, causing consumption and other diseases of the respiratory organs.

Prior to the discovery of Hyomel, every method of treatment for the cure of catarrh had been found worthless. This can be clearly proven by the weekly statements published in every large city by the board of health, showing a great increase in the death rate from diseases of the respiratory organs, and the startling growth in the number of persons afflicted with such troubles.

The discovery of Hyomel and its increased use has already reduced the percentage of persons suffering from catarrh. This wonderful remedy is the simplest and most pleasant of all treatments. Just put a little Hyomel in the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, breathe through the inhaler for ten minutes four times a day. Relief will be seen from the first treatment; cure will soon follow. It is the true treatment for diseases of the respiratory organs.

Scientific and medical men recommend it. Leading druggists have so much faith in it that they guarantee a cure or they will refund the money. In this city too People's Drug Company are selling it upon that plan, so that any of our readers can use Hyomel without its costing them a cent unless it cures. Can there be a fairer way? People's Drug Co.

WISCONSIN WEATHER FORECAST

Fair tonight, Sunday; no decided change in temperature.

A QUESTION OF HONOR

The long bill that sloped down from the old red school house, was covered with ice and the coasting for a week had been unusually fine. The noon hour was all too short, and when the one o'clock bell rang, one bright day in March, the boys could not resist the temptation for another slide.

As they came, puffing up to the top of the hill some one suggested that the whole party play truant for the afternoon, using the argument that they were already late, and that one warm day, which might be tomorrow would spoil the sport for the winter.

The plan was generally approved and they were just preparing to put it in execution, when a pale-faced lad, of a dozen summers or more, pulled his sled across the track and said:

"Boys, I like fun as well as any of you, and I should enjoy coasting all the afternoon, but don't you know the teacher put us on our honor at the commencement of the term, and told us that she wouldn't punish a scholar in the school so long as we didn't abuse the trust. I wouldn't disappoint her for anything in the world, and I don't believe you will."

Then he turned and started for the old school house. A short consultation followed and five minutes later thirty boys fled into the school room, influenced by the thought of responsibility suggested.

When the room was quiet, the teacher said in pleasant voice, "You are a little late boys, but I know how fine the coasting is, and I am going to close the school at three o'clock and give you all a chance to enjoy yourselves. You have been so considerate of me all the term that I appreciate it; and then each head was bent in study and the teacher never knew the influence that saved the honor of the school."

The question of honor in dealing with boys and girls, both in the home and the school, is not always appreciated. In fact, it is all too frequently ignored.

Many teachers are tyrannical in the school room, enforcing the letter of the law so rigidly that they enjoy the sole and only reputation of being good disciplinarians. The heart of the child is never touched, and the rebellious side of intellect abnormally developed.

There are many homes where child life is so freighted with distrust, that the meaning of the word honor, is never understood, and when the children of these homes, carry the burden out into life, where honor is the main spring of action, they have much to learn that should have been taught in the home.

The business world makes no claim to being a religious instructor and yet the code of honor, and moral obligation is so closely observed, that it represents more than ninety per cent. of the working capital.

There are but few incorrigible children, and comparatively only a limited number of dishonest people. There isn't a school room in the land where ten per cent. of the children are so depraved that they voluntarily prefer the wrong to the right.

If the teacher, in any degree, appreciates her high and sacred mission, she will win the love and obedience of her school by confidence imposed, much more readily than by rigid enforcement of discipline. The boy may be full of mischief, and the girl careless and heedless, but wrapped up in this bundle of excessive life, is a heart that was intended to respond to every touch of sympathy.

The laws that govern in this every day world of hard stubborn facts, are not the laws enacted to hold in check the criminal classes, but they are the larger code of unwritten laws, defined by the simple definition of the little word, "honor."

The man in business speedily discovers that when honor is sacrificed, and confidence destroyed, that the road to success is barricaded. It is the short term for character, and the only foundation upon which to build an enduring structure.

The investigation just now going on in the city is largely the result of a lack of appreciation of a fine sense of honor. Reputation has been tarnished, not through deliberate planning to be dishonest, but by carelessness and recklessness in spending public moneys.

There is no position so trying as a position of public trust. A man's private life is very largely his own property, while his public record belongs to his constituency. He may be ever so honest in intent, and maintain his character, so far as individual conscience is concerned, and at the same time enjoy an unenviable reputation. Many a man in public life has been killed by an unsavory reputation.

There are times when the honor of a nation are at stake, and when its reputation is delegated to a few representatives at the seat of government.

The United States is having an experience of this kind at the present time, in dealing with the Philippine question. Governor Taft has outlined a policy so just and humane, that it commands itself at sight. The house endorses the plan, but the senate refuses to act, and congress is likely to adjourn with this important question unsettled.

The question of honor touches humanity at every point. It begins with the child as the age of reason approaches, and it is a prominent factor so long as reason is in control.

It should be recognized and developed more completely in the home. Confidence always inspires confidence and the boy or girl takes a long stride forward when trusted with responsibility.

It should be more closely observed in the school room, which is simply the stepping stone to the larger school of life. The seeds of honor thoroughly planted in the child's mind, take root that is not easily disturbed.

It shall be more closely observed in the administration of city affairs. There is no reason why a citizen cannot emerge from a city office with both character and reputation untarnished.

The state and nation can ill afford to ignore the great principle involved. It is the safeguard of government and the emblem of the best civilization.

When the race was created and endowed with free moral agency, the question of individual and collective honor entered very largely into the planning. Manhood reaches its best estate when these principles are encouraged and fully developed.

That Indiana state senator who obeyed his wife's wishes by refusing to vote on a given question probably thinks that being in contempt of the senate is altogether preferable to being in contempt of the law-making body at home.

Even the sultan of Turkey has a profound respect for President Roosevelt and probably remembers "fighting" Bob Evans' pointed remarks at the end of a gun a few years ago.

King Edward's gloomy remarks about the Balkan situation may have been designed to relieve by contrast the announcement that the British subject is now about to be called on to pay some more taxes.

Russia is going to right injustice in Turkey; meanwhile the Tartars are fleeing from Russia and settling in Turkey on account of Russian oppression.

South America is once more the scene of war clouds. For good genuine war news the South American republics have the Balkans all beat a block.

Evidently Secretary Cortelyou's troubles have just begun. Here is a Wisconsin man who wants a job already.

It is unfair to blame noblemen for falling in love with American girls. Some of them really need the money.

If all the powers are to help the United States maintain the Monroe doctrine whom will they maintain it against?

Judging from the rate of progress made by the shipbuilders most of the new battleships should be finished by the time they become obsolete.

Pope Leo is enjoying his ripe old age with due ceremony at Rome and all the Catholic world rejoices with him.

After having warmed up to Miss Thaw, the earl of Yarmouth probably will freeze on her bank account.

A "re-enforced" cold wave reminds one of the scriptural furnace seven times heated—it is so different.

Now the packers have lost a point in that federal suit. Uncle Sam is out after meat.

It is pleasant to note that some get-rich-quick concerns may be closed up quick.

So Castro still has a grievance against his dear friend Kaiser William.

Possibly you might find the north pole by digging in your back yard.

PRESS COMMENT

Racine Journal: The bill of Senator Johnson to establish a state sanitarium for tuberculosis patients is upon the lines that have been foreshadowed by late medical evidence and by modern progress. The bill calls for an appropriation of $100,000 with a monthly expense of $1,000. The principal sum is for the purchase of buildings and the purchase of a site and such expenditures as will naturally be necessitated. The day will come when the states will care for all patients suffering from contagious diseases of every nature. It may be slow at first, but with the first successful sanitarium conducted under state auspices, the example will be followed by others.

Delavan Enterprise: It is unfortunate that the poultry breeders of the state did not take hold of the matter of securing state aid for their poultry shows earlier, so as to get it before the legislature in a systematic manner. Wisconsin is not the only state where this idea is being pushed. A bill for the same purpose is before the legislature of the state of Pennsylvania with good prospects of being enacted.

Fond du Lac Reporter: An inheritance tax law along the lines recommended by the state tax commission should be and doubtless will be passed by the legislature. A person who receives a legacy receives something for nothing and it is only just that the state should receive a reasonable benefit.

Reduce Sunday Work: All connections of the Chicago and Northwestern railway have been given notice that hereafter no "dead freight" will be received by that company on Sundays between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. This notice is given in pursuance of the Northwestern's experiments in reducing to a minimum the movement of freight on the Sabbath day.

Marquette Star: If Senator Bird's bill to prohibit cigarette smoking passes it would go hard with the university students. Classes will have to be held in jail if present habits continue. University students never feel real classic until they begin to roll a "stick."

La Crosse Republican and Leader: A bill giving courtly superintendents the entire authority to select public school text books, introduced at Madison, should bear the title: "Be it enacted by the people of the state of Wisconsin, that the people do hereby abdicate in favor of the trusts."

Chippewa Independent: Chippewa county will in ten years be one of the richest counties in the state. Upon its broad territory there is no pauperism. The fertile soil has produced so many great men that they get in each other's way when they undertake to run for office.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Assemblyman Cowling has introduced a bill in the legislature to protect muskrats and their winter houses. This evinces a commendable desire to look after the needs and necessities of a home industry.

Madison Democrat: Mr. Littlefield is unhappy. He wrote an anti-trust law and the house passed it; but it is likely to be side-tracked in the senate. The president does not like it; and Mr. Littlefield is not to be the champion trust buster.

State Journal: The "Good Roads" people are an enthusiastic company. It is a strange alliance of farmers and French chateaus who succeed the bicyclists as the most ardent champions of road betterment—but any way to get it.

La Crosse Republican and Leader: President Roosevelt's rigid application of the civil service law has resulted in saving senators and members of the house from much unnecessary worry.

Kenosha News: The drug stores display signs stating that prescriptions are "carefully compounded for members of the Red Cross society." The rest of us who don't belong will still continue to take chances.

Eau Claire Telegram: The coal bin that has bin a full bin and is now an empty bin has bin pretty well discussed and the subject has bin worn out.

Chippewa Herald: The editor who recently asserted that only one "fool bill" was introduced during the session of the legislature must be something of an optimist himself.

Green Bay Gazette: When the trusts learn that the legislature of Wisconsin is camping on their trail they will undoubtedly take to the cyclone cellar.

THE GIRL WE LIKE BEST.

Who is not eternally regulating her conduct by what "people say."

Who is not suspicious that everybody is bent on hurting her feelings.

Who is the girl whose head has not been turned by her own good looks.

Who is not so witty as to be constantly hurting others by her clever sarcasm.

Who has some better occupation than to chatter slang and read decadent novels.

And who does not account it the chief end of a woman's existence to have mankind at her feet.

Will Attend Church: Members of W. H. Sargent Post, No. 20, G. A. R., and all old veterans are requested to meet at Post hall Sunday evening at 6:30 o'clock, ready to attend divine service at the Court street, M. E. church.

MRS. G. A. PROCTOR IS LAID AT REST

Impressive Funeral Services Held from the Home This Afternoon Were Largely Attended.

From the country home over which she had presided with such devotion and loving care, all that was mortal of the late Mrs. G. A. Proctor was laid in its final resting place in Oak Hill cemetery this afternoon. Preceding the interment, impressive services were held at one o'clock from the home in the town of LaPrairie. Many neighbors and friends gathered to render this final tribute to her memory and an abundance of choice flowers spoke sweetly of the sympathy and love of those who mourned with the bereaved family.

Rev. Robert C. Denison, pastor of the Congregational church, was the officiating clergyman and the song service was beautifully rendered by a quartet consisting of Mrs. C. F. Yates, Mrs. Fanny Clark, C. N. Vankirk and George G. Paris. Those who were selected to officiate as pall bearers were neighbors of the deceased woman, being William Sherman, Edward Parker, James Banfield, J. W. Frost, George Turk, John Little and E. Van Allen.

Mrs. G. A. Proctor had completed the fifty-fifth year of her life when death came to her last Thursday morning at 2:15 o'clock. She was born October 19, 1847, at Fulton, being a daughter of the late Silas Hurd, of Indian Ford. On the 22nd of February, 1876, she was united in marriage to G. A. Proctor of LaPrairie. Eight children, two sons and six daughters, were born to them; being Louie and Dean Q. Proctor, Mrs. Pearl Chesmore and the Misses Myrtle, Edna, Leo, Isabelle and Mable Proctor. All, with the exception of Mable who died Nov. 24, 1902, survive to mourn with their father. Two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Scofield and Mrs. E. P. Wixom, of this city, and one brother, John Hurd, of Fulton, also survive.

Devotion to her family and friends was one of the strongest of the many noble traits in Mrs. Proctor's life. Everything possible for the educational advancement of her children was done regardless of expense or other considerations. She was an unselfish wife and mother, a kindly neighbor and a most estimable woman. Her memory will be cherished tenderly by all who knew and loved her.

PYTHIANS ENJOY SOCIAL SESSION

ANNIVERSARY OF ORDER'S BIRTH IS CELEBRATED.

THE LADIES ARE ENTERTAINED

Oriental Lodge No. 22 Knights of Pythias Devotes an Evening to Pleasure.

Sir Knights of Oriental Lodge No. 22 Knights of Pythias and their ladies fair held a pleasant social session in K. P. hall, Friday evening, the gathering being a celebration of the thirty-ninth anniversary of the founding of the order. It was the regular meeting night of the local lodge and a brief business session was held before the ladies were admitted to the hall and laughingly assured that all the mysteries of Pythianism would be laid bare before them.

M. O. Mout, chairman of the committee which had the evening's entertainment in charge, gave the address of welcome. His address was unique in its droll humor and keen satirical hits which were made all the more effective by the deliberate and serious manner of the speaker.

Thomas S. Nolan gave a brief history of the order, the facts of history being rather lost to view in the fund of good stories and amusing incidents with which his talk was filled to overflowing. Personally he had found one of the chief values of a lodge in the fact that it always furnished an acceptable excuse to give his wife when he was out late nights.

Stanley B. Smith gave one of his characteristic talks in the same humorous vein and B. H. Baldwin had a few words to say at the expense of his fellow Pythians. In fact there was a running crossfire of personal digs and witty responses which furnished amusement for those who were safe from the attacks while those who were the victims enjoyed the encounter of wits with just as keen relish, taking and giving in the best of good nature.

One of the features of the evening was a series of stereopticon views representing the history of Pythianism. These pictures and the lantern, a very fine outfit, are the property of the lodge. The ladies were even permitted to gaze on a picture of the historic goat and were surprised at the close resemblance between his face and that of B. H. Baldwin. Dr. E. D. Roberts was also shown on his way to Madison and there were other humorous views. Introducing prominent members of the local lodge. Several selections on a gramophone, with J. D. King in charge, brought the evening of pleasure to a close.

NEWS OF THE CITY IN BRIEF.

Finds Glass Removed: Officer Fanning, while making his rounds about two o'clock this morning discovered a light of glass had been removed from a window in the rear of Dedrick Bros. store. He made a thorough search of the premises and surrounding territory but could find no trace of the parties. The window from which the glass was removed had inside blinds which prevented the thief getting into the store.

Monday A Holiday: On account of Washington's birthday coming on Sunday, Monday will be observed as a legal holiday by the banks, courts and county offices that do not transact any business on a legal holiday.

Is Better Now: Assistant Chief engineer G. H. Osgood is able to go around and attend to business after a severe fit of sickness, but is still having considerable trouble with his back.

Found Not Guilty: The case of the city of Janesville vs. Sheridan and Byrne for keeping open after 11 o'clock last Saturday night was tried yesterday afternoon before Judge Fifield. The preponderance of testimony was with the saloon keepers and they were acquitted.

A Valuable Sock: According to the Beloit Free Press, at least one of their citizens has no confidence in banks and prefers to carry his ready money with him. The gentleman's name is L. Wing, and when the officers searched him Wednesday night after arresting him for drunkenness, they found $1,300 in bills and currency concealed in his sock, where he explained he had placed it for safe keeping.

Not A Candidate: Michael Hayes says he has no idea of being a candidate for mayor at the Spring election and would not accept the nomination if it was tendered him. His business interests are such that it would be impossible for him to give the office the time it requires if he was elected.

DEAN M'GINNITY IS IN HONOLULU

A CABLEGRAM WAS RECEIVED FROM HIM TODAY.

OVER ONE DOLLAR PER WORD

Charges on the Ten-Word Message Were $10.50—His Nephew Sends a Reply.

To the Rev. Dean E. M. McGinnity, the sender of the first cablegram over the new Pacific cable from Honolulu to Janesville, announcing his safe arrival in that far away Hawaiian port and his improved health and the fact that he will again be in San Francisco on March 2.

The cablegram was received by his nephew, Rev. James J. McGinnity this morning. Manager Doris of the Postal company, did not know how long the message had been on the way but said that it could not have been more than an hour and that perhaps it was only twenty minutes or so. Only the receiving time was on it.

A Health Trip

Dean McGinnity is in Hawaii for his health. He sailed from San Francisco on February 13 on the steamer China. He will return at once, landing in San Francisco in March.

Cost $5.90

The message was ten words long and cost fifty-nine cents a word bringing the total up to $5.90. This is the first official use that the new cable of the Postal company has been able to demonstrate its efficiency to Janesville people.

Rev. James J. McGinnity responded to his uncle's message by sending an answering cablegram to Honolulu this afternoon.

PLAN TO WEIGH ALL STONE USED

Say That This Would Be the Proper Way to Avoid All Future Trouble.

It has been suggested by a good many that in view of the shortage at the city stone crusher during the last year, that the city should adopt some system of weighing all the stone delivered to the contractors.

Followed Elsewhere

This plan is followed in nearly all cities where a municipal stone crushing plant is operated and every pound of stone delivered is recorded. The contractors say that this is the only proper system to work under, as they would then know just exactly how much stone they used and there would be no question about what they paid for.

Ordinance Passed

During the last year an order was passed by the council that so much stone, either two or two and a half cubic yards, should constitute a load. The wagon boxes were all measured to hold the required amount but no two teamsters loaded their wagons alike and there was no way of telling how near they came to having the required load.

At Small Cost

It would not be a costly affair to equip the crushing plant with an automatic hopper and scales, that would register the exact number of pounds that was delivered to each teamster. The city would save much more than enough each season to pay the cost of the equipment.

MICHAEL A. OTT IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

One of Janesville's Pioneer Business Men Passed Away Suddenly This Morning.

Michael A. Ott, the pioneer harness maker of this city, passed away quite suddenly at his home at 106 North Bluff street, this morning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Ott had been in ill health for the past year and had been failing steadily since Thanksgiving time but he had continued to attend to business duties until a week ago, since which time he had been confined to his bed.

Had Mr. Ott lived until the sixth of April, he would have been sixty-five years of age. He was born in Baden, Germany and came to this country when he was twelve years of age. After remaining in Milwaukee for a year he came to this city making his home with his sister, Mrs. Sarah Sherer, who still survives him.

Mr. Ott had resided in this city continuously for fifty-two years. For forty-five years he had been engaged in harness making, learning the trade of his brother-in-law, the late Albert Sherer. Until within the past few years Mr. Ott continued in business in the same shop on North Main street where he learned his trade.

Forty-two years ago the 12th of this month he was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Cral and four children were born to them. Arthur A. Ott, now residing at Larimer, N. D., Frank E. Ott, of Chicago, Mrs. Henry Laymon, of this city, and the late Chas. Ott, who died in December, 1888 and whose death his father never ceased to mourn.

Mr. Ott was a man of exemplary habits and was a member of the Temple of Honor for over twenty-five years. Quiet and retiring in his nature, he lived his life in an unostentatious way, giving his best efforts to his work and to his home. He was a good citizen, a kind husband and father and a faithful friend. The bereaved wife, sons, daughter and sister will have the sympathy of many friends.

No arrangements for the funeral will be made until the arrival of the sons.

BIG MEET AT BELOIT TODAY

INTERSCHOLASTIC INDOOR CONTEST IN THE COLLEGE GYM.

BOWER CITY IS REPRESENTED

Beloit, Rockford and Janesville High Schools, and Beloit College Academy, Contestants.

In the antique structure on the Beloit college campus which is known by courtesy as a gymnasium a quadrangular indoor meet is in progress this afternoon. The contesting schools are Rockford, Beloit and Janesville high, and Beloit college academy. The meet is being held under the direction of the Beloit College Athletic association. It is expected to perfect an interscholastic organization today which shall hereafter control yearly meets, both indoor and outdoor.

Janesville Team

Janesville is represented in the meet by a team of about a dozen men. Several of them contested in a basketball game at Burlington last night, and may be somewhat the worst for it, but all are in good training and have practised faithfully. The training has consisted in basketball playing more than in practice for the events which take place today.

Nine Events

Nine events make up today's program. They are the 20-yard dash, 440-yard dash, 880-yard dash, 1-mile run, 2-mile run, shot put, high jump, pole vault, and relay race.

Beloit Freshmen

In addition to the four schools which were originally included in the meet, a number of Beloit college freshmen are participating in the different events. They have a team entered for the relay.

Medals

Medals of silver and bronze, furnished by the college athletic association, are to be awarded the winners of first and second places in each race. A banner will be given the team taking the most points. Another banner will go to the winners in the relay race.

In managing the meet the college athletic association of Beloit has assumed the expenses of the visiting teams, as well as the cost of the medals, banners, and other incidental expenses. If the proceeds exceed the cost of managing the meet, the surplus will be used toward defraying the expenses of sending a college team to the M. A. C. meet at Milwaukee, March 7th. The association is already in a straitened financial condition, and it is earnestly hoped by all friends of the college that this afternoon's meet will prove successful. The events begin at 2:30 o'clock.

ABBEY CENTURIES OLD

GROTTAFERRATA BUILT ONE THOUSAND YEARS AGO.

Some Parts of the Walls of the Earliest Buildings Still Standing—Frescoes of Old Master in the Comparatively Modern Portions.

(Special Correspondence.)

T is Edmond About that relates a strange story of Napoleon the Great's feeling for ancient descent. Napoleon questioned a member of the Massimo family of Rome, and with that brusque manner which was more or less habitual with the conqueror of many nations, he asked: "Is it true that you are descended from Fabius Maximus?" "I cannot prove it," replied the noble Roman, "but it is a tradition in our family for more than a thousand years."

The Abbey of Grottaferrata has not quite so antique a descent, but it comes pretty near the thousand. It is the most ancient abbey in Italy, and is now about to celebrate the ninth centennial of its foundation. A strange and varied history has been lived and written since that fortress-like refuge of Greek monks first arose amidst the hills that slope up from the broad Campagna to the heights of Tivoli. The perpetuity of certain institutions is demonstrated by so long continued an existence as this.

In the old times retirement from the world, even in a monastery, resembled a retreat into a fortress, and it occasionally happened that the man of prayer and meditation had to become a warrior and defend his life. The walls that once defended this home of Greek monks who followed the rule of St. Basil are now mere antiquarian curiosities, for the day of material defense is over.

The abbey is considered, and with much reason, as one of the most interesting monuments of mediæval art in the neighborhood of Rome. It has a series of treasures, in the form of ancient documents, which render it celebrated in the annals of learning. The mosaics on its walls have a special interest of their own, as they have been produced under Greek influence. It is noted as possessing some admirable frescoes of Domenichino, which have attracted pilgrims of art to this silent abbey.

In the early years of the eleventh century—that is, in the year 1004—the Abbey of Grottaferrata was founded, and now, at the close of its ninth centennial of existence, a commemoration of its founding is about to be observed. It is not to be expected that much of the original building should now remain, but the bell tower, or campanile, and some of the walls go back to that date.

One of the characteristics which impresses the visitor to the abbey church of Grottaferrata is the prevalence of Greek in the inscriptions, and that is brought home to him the more forcibly as the infinite majority of inscriptions he meets with in the churches of Rome are in the Latin tongue.

Above the door in the vestibule he may read this warning in Greek: "O ye who enter into the house of God, leave without the intoxication of cares, in order that you may find the Eternal Judge kindly within." Whatever effect it may have upon the worshippers, the warning is good, though much of its force is lost upon the crowd which occasionally flocks there through their failure to understand the language in which it is written.

But in the chapel of St. Nilus, the side of the church, the stranger and lover of art finds what most interests him. Here are the frescoes of Domenichino, one of the greatest masters of the Holognese school, whose most important work is the "Last Communion of St. Jerome," now in the Vatican, which Nicholas Poussin considered as a masterpiece, second only to the great masterpiece of Raphael, "The Transfiguration," besides which it is placed.

The scene depicted on the left wall represents a historical incident connected with the founder of the place, the interview of St. Nilus with the Emperor Otho III. The picture is celebrated. The monk Nilus, an old bearded man, bows in humility before to praise in a special way the fine attitude of the page who holds the bridle of the horse that is rearing. But while acknowledging the admirable and powerful expression of this individual, there are other parts of the composition which display no less perfection.

After so many centuries the abbey proper still endures, and the Greek rite is celebrated within its walls. The library, opening from the grand cloister, where the capitals of the columns show the shield of Cardinal della Rovere, afterward Pope Julius II., possesses many treasures of ancient Greek manuscripts, although many of these have been removed to the Barberini and the Vatican libraries.

Now the Abbot Pellegrini is about to celebrate this ninth centennial of the foundation of the abbey by holding an exhibition in it of the works of art it possesses, and of other works belonging to the Italo-Byzantine period. The place itself is an exhibition, and will bring scholars and students and travelers within its walls, for it presents a survival of a past that is full of matter of thought to inquirers.

Among the Greek manuscripts is a collection of ascetic works belonging to the tenth century, and at the end the transcriber, stopping in his copying of prayers, notes that on the 23d of May, toward 3 o'clock, the Duke Robert Guiscard entered into the city of Rome and sacked it! That event made such noise that it disturbed the copist in the solitude of the abbey, fourteen miles from Rome.

RIDING ON AN AVALANCHE.

Sensation An Alpine Climber Experienced During a Terrific Descent.

Few people have ridden in an Alpine avalanche and lived to tell the story. Harold Spender, an English traveler, had a talk with a Mr. Gossett, who had actually passed through such an ordeal, having been covered up by a wave of snow which came from behind him and closed over his head. He managed to work himself to the surface, where he was so borne along that he could watch all that took place, although unable at the time to free or even to help himself much.

"I was on the wave of the avalanche and saw it before me as I was carried down. It was the most awful sight I ever witnessed. The head of the avalanche was already at the spot where we had made our last halt. The head alone was preceded by a thick cloud of snow dust, the rest of the avalanche was clear. To prevent myself from sinking again I made use of my arms much in the same way as when swimming in a standing position. At last I noticed that I was moving more slowly; then I saw pieces of snow in front of me stop at some yards' distance; then the snow straight before me stopped, and I heard on a large scale the same creaking sound that is produced when a heavy cart passes over hard, frozen snow in winter. I felt that I also stopped and instantly threw up both arms to protect my head in case I should again be covered up." Mr. Gossett and three of his companions escaped. The other two were buried by the avalanche.

Butter Carries Infection. In times of cholera, typhoid and other infectious diseases butter is a dangerous thing to eat. A medical man in Egypt gives this recipe for making it harmless: "Sterilize the local article by standing it in a covered jar surrounded by boiling water, which should be allowed to simmer for two hours; the jar should then be put on ice, and the butter beaten with an egg whisk until it becomes solid again."

Gets Pure Drinking Water. The city of Wiesbaden, Germany, has constructed extensive ozone water-works for the purpose of obtaining a drinking water entirely free from pathogenic germs. The ozone, generated by electric discharges in an apparatus composed of metal tubes, passes upward through coarse gravel contained in towers, while the water to be sterilized flows down and arrives at the bottom perfectly germless.

Bibles for Blind Hindus. The British and Foreign Bible Society is endeavoring to reach more than half a million blind Hindus by circulating the scriptures through a recent adaptation of Louis Braille's raised dot system as distinguished from Moon's line system, so long in operation.

"Etherogram" Marconi's Preference. "Etherogram" is said to be Mr. Marconi's preference for a name of dispatches sent by his wireless method. He disapproves of "Marconigrams" because, he says, it savors too much of self-advertisement.

SEVERE STORMS
BLOCK TRAFFIC
GAINS IN RAILWAY EARNINGS

February Shows an Increase of 17.6 Per Cent Over Last Year—Trade Conditions Generally Exhibit a Healthy and Satisfactory Growth.

New York, Feb. 21.—"Just as the railway congestion began to give way before the vigorous efforts of traffic managers the situation became further complicated by the worst snowstorm of the season, and the movement of merchandise was again interrupted. Latest figures of gross earnings show the usual gains, February thus far surpassing by 17.6 per cent last year, when unusual delay was caused by severe storms, and 1901 by 17.6 per cent. Increased cost of operation, however, necessitated further advances in rates." The foregoing is from the weekly trade review of R. G. Dan & Co. It continues:

Bad Weather.

"Trade was interrupted to a considerable extent by the inclement weather, except in certain seasonable lines, notably heavy wearing apparel. Wholesale houses dealing in staples have received liberal orders and much forward business has been placed. Jobbers urge quicker shipments on old orders, while travelers send in many new contracts. Manufacturers of paper straw goods and clothing report conditions fully as satisfactory as a year ago, aside from interruption by labor controversies.

"Conditions in the silk industry are shown by enormous imports of raw material, and one large throwster has recently rejected orders sufficient to occupy his plant for two years.

Building Supplies.

"Bids are invited for extensive building operations, giving strength and activity to materials and supplies.

"Although many new blast furnaces are nearing completion and others will be finished within six months, the actual output of pig iron decreases because fuel cannot be secured. Reports of agreements to supply quantities of coke to favored plants are denied. There is little disposition to anticipate pig iron requirements far into the future, however, as there is always the hope of a restoration of approximately normal conditions. Steel billets are arriving from abroad and find a market at interior mills, but on domestic business for future delivery there is some discrepancy between bid and asking prices. A heavy tonnage of plates, sheet and pipe has been sold at full figures, while more Canadian rail contracts have gone to European mills.

General Trade.

"Quieter conditions prevail in the market for dry goods, although mills are busy and prices well maintained. Numerous lines of cottons have again advanced in response to the upward tendency of the raw material, and the first result has been a disposition to delay purchases by leading buyers. Western jobbers are placing liberal case orders for fall styles with New England producers of boots and shoes, but wholesale trade at the East is between seasons.

"Failures this week numbered 217 in the United States, against 250 a year ago, and twenty-six in Canada, compared with thirty-one last year."

SOCIAL AFTERNOON
FOR ART LEAGUE

Study Meeting is Postponed, and Ladies Have Pleasant Gathering at Mrs. Moutat's Home.

Janesville Art League members enjoyed a pleasant departure from their accustomed line of work on Friday afternoon when instead of the usual program the meeting was devoted entirely to a social good time. It was the first time in the history of the studios club that a purely social meeting for the members of the club had been held but so delightful did it prove that others are certain to follow.

This social meeting was held at the home of Mrs. P. J. Moutat 153 South Main street, thirty ladies spending the afternoon happily. There was no program and no set form of entertainment, the gathering being strictly informal. Two hours were devoted to visiting, some of the ladies busying themselves with needlework while others found entertainment at the card tables.

At five o'clock dainty refreshments consisting of coffee, lettuce sandwiches, fruit jelly, fancy wafers and stuffed dates were served. The committee which had charge of this social afternoon included Mesdames E. F. Woods, Walter Helms and H. D. Murdoch.

A Full-Size Bottle Free

If you suffer from a germ trouble, and will try Liquozone for it, we will furnish the first bottle free. We do this to save delay—to convince you at once and forever that Liquozone does kill germs. Then please tell your friends about it.

No Drugs in Liquozone.

Liquozone is simply liquid oxygen; not a drug of any kind in it. It is the discovery of Paul the great German chemist, who spent 20 years on it. The process of making requires 14 days. Liquozone creates in the blood such an excess of oxygen that no germ can live in any membrane or tissue.

Liquozone—liquid oxygen—solves the great problem of killing germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. No drug will do that, and medicine can never reach the cause of a germ trouble. But Liquozone clears the whole body of germs—inside and outside; and it kills them with oxygen—a tonic—the very essence of life to you. The reason is that germs are vegetables, and Lliquozone, while harmless and helpful to all animal matter, destroys vegetables.

In every country a company is being formed to furnish this wonderful product to physicians, to hospital and direct to the sick. This company owns the rights to the United States, and to have the sick use Lliquozone at once, we offer the first bottle free to any one unwilling to buy it. We will gladly send you an order on your druggist for it—wherever you are—and instruct him to charge it to us.

If you need help, please learn what Lliquozone does. Learn at our expense, and you will never afterward live in a house without it.

Two sizes—50c and $1.00—at drug stores.

LAW DECISIONS

Trade Names—Periodicals not Compelling.

Plaintiff published in Maine a periodical under the name of "Comfort," which circulated chiefly in country districts, and contained stories and advertisements of concerns desiring to reach that class of readers. Later defendant started a periodical which he named "Home Comfort." It was published in New York, treated of the care and hygiene of infants, and its advertising matter was largely of a different character from that of plaintiff's publication. The two publications were different in size, appearance, and price, and there was no evidence of any intention on the part of defendant to deceive either purchasers or advertisers. Held, that the two publications were not in fact competitors, and that the plaintiff was not entitled to an injunction restraining defendant from using the word "Comfort" in the name of his paper, in the absence of proof that deception or confusion actually resulted to his injury. 119 Federal Rep. (New York, Judge Hazelt) 221.

States-Power to Arrest United States Officer.

An officer of the United States army acting in the discharge of his duty, in obedience to the orders of the secretary of war, who in turn is executing an act of Congress, is not subject to arrest on a warrant or order of a state court. If he is thus doing a work commanded by his superior officer, and is enjoined from proceeding by a state court, the issuance of such injunction being void, his obedience by the officer is not a contempt of court and his arrest and detention therefore is without legal authority. 119 Federal Rep. (Iowa, Judge McPherson) 231.

A wife agreed not to contest an action for divorce brought against her by her husband in North Dakota, he agreeing in turn that, if he obtained the divorce the decree should contain a provision for the payment to her of a weekly amount of alimony for her support. The decree contained the provision stipulated. Held, that, though the agreement was void, as against public policy, its invalidity can not be raised in a collateral attack on the decree in a suit afterwards brought by the wife in New York to recover installments due thereunder. If the provision for weekly payment for support was inserted by the collusion in order to obtain the decree, it was a fraud upon the court, of which both parties were equally guilty, and neither could object. 70 N. Y. Supplement. (Judge Kellogg) 519.
